PRODUCTION NOTES

Springdale is a fictitious town in south west Florida. The movie was shot in two weeks during the summer in Florida and two weekends in New York City. The crew and main cast all flew down to florida and stayed in the house that was also used as the main location. The dog in the movie was available for only two days so all the important dog scenes had to be shot within those two days. In some other scenes Erin is holding a leash with a roll of tape attached to the end.
